History and Philosophy

Lying along the prime strip of land that adjoins the Italian and the Slovenian sides of the Collio, the Movia estate has been in existence since 1700s. It was purchased by the Kristancic family in 1820 and is currently run by the iconic Aleš Kristancic. As a child, Aleš worked with his father at the winery when he would have preferred to play soccer, the new moon rose and Aleš dutifully helped his father transfer wines from barrel to barrel. Today he passionately implements the rigorous biodynamic principles handed down to him while simultaneously experimenting with new techniques to produce wines of unprecedented purity and authenticity. His distinct vision stems from the wisdom of eight generations spent among the vines and in the cellar coupled with a natural intuition toward to relationship between nature, soil, vines, and wine.

Featured Wine: LUNAR

"It's just Ribolla and it's expression. What the juice wants to be. No more. We touch the wine one time—to put the wine in the barrel."

- ALEŠ KRISTANCIC

Lunar is a revolutionary wine with minimal human intervention. This wine is the idea of innovative winemaker Aleš Kristancic, who wanted to create a wine that imitates the natural method of vinification which occurs in nature through the stages of the moon. To do so, Aleš created custom-made barriques, which allow for wine to ferment, age, and stabilize completely on its own. No grapes are pressed, it is without delestage, and no added chemicals are in this wine. To add to this unique process these barrels are then buried 25 feet underground and aged for nine months and bottled on its lees. Lunar is a true expression of a visionary winemaker.
